Holy Land Partition Proposed

U.N. Committee Majority Asks Joint Economy Admission Of 150,000 Jews Is Recommended

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The United Nations Palestine Committee majority recommended tonight the partition of the Holy Land, formation of an economic union there, and admission of 150,000 Jews to Palestine during a two-year transitional period beginning tomorrow.

Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, Secretary-General of the seven-state Arab League and one of the chief Arab spokesmen, immediately assailed the report as "absolutely impracticable."

"I do not think the Assembly will take it," he said in a statement. "It does not solve anything. It only makes the situation worse."

The five Arab states in the United Nations—Egypt, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia, are certain to fight the whole committee report in the Assembly, which will convene September 16. The Arabs demand an independent Arab Palestine; no more Jewish immigration, and termination now of the British mandate over the Holy Land.

Jewish Agency Silent

There was no statement here from the Jewish Agency for Palestine, which has demanded a Jewish state in the Holy Land and increased Jewish immigration.

Jewish Agency officials in Jerusalem also declined to comment, but Emil Ghoury, a member of the Palestine Arab Higher Committee, said in a statement in Jerusalem that Arabs "would oppose by force" any plans for partition or federalization of the Holy Land.

The committee majority proposed that the immigrants be permitted into Palestine while the Holy Land is being transformed into the economic union made up of one Arab state, one Jewish state, and the autonomous city of Jerusalem.

A committee minority proposed a joint Arab-Jewish state under a federal government.

Other salient points favored by the majority made up of Canada, Czechoslovakia, Guatemala, the Netherlands, Peru, Sweden and Uruguay:

1. That Britain, which holds the mandate over Palestine, continue her administration during the transitional period, with the possible assistance of other United Nations states.

2. That the Arab and Jewish states will become independent after the transitional period of two years beginning September 1, 1947, and later they have signed a treaty setting up a system of economic collaboration.

3. That if the transitional period is longer than two years, Jewish immigration shall be extended at the rate of 5,000 per month. The present quota is 1,500 per month.

World End British Mandate

The committee unanimously recommended that:

1. The 25-year mandate of Britain be terminated at the earliest practicable moment.

2. That independence be granted in Palestine at the earliest practicable date.

3. That in whatever solution is decided upon the sacred character of the Holy places be preserved, with access insured in accord with existing rights.

4. That the United Nations undertake immediately the initiation and execution of an international arrangement whereby the problem of the distressed 250,000 European Jews in assembly centers will be dealt with as a matter of extreme urgency.

The report now goes to the 55 member countries for their study before the Assembly meets. The Assembly can only recommend a solution and has no power to force any nation to accept its decisions.

TRAFFIC DEATHS MOUNT BUT TOTAL STILL FAR BELOW NSC ESTIMATE

(By The Associated Press)

Traffic fatalities among the nation's Labor Day vacationers mounted Sunday as millions of motorists took to the open road, but totals were still well below the National Safety Council's estimate of 250 traffic deaths for the three-day weekend.

Since 6 p. m. Friday, 153 persons were killed in holiday accidents, 112 of them victims of traffic mishaps. Fifteen persons were drowned. Another 26 met death in miscellaneous accidents, including eight killed in small plane crashes.

Maryland's holiday death toll rose to six on Sunday, state police said, with the accident list over the Labor Day weekend including four highway fatalities, one drowning and one plane crash victim.

Truman, En Route To Rio De Janeiro, Lands In Trinidad

Greeted By Governor; Resumes Trip Today

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 31.—President Truman, flying to Rio de Janeiro to attend final sessions of the Inter-American Conference, landed here today with Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret.

A band played "The Missouri Waltz" as the President's plane, the Independence, taxied to a halt at the airport, where he was greeted by Sir John Shaw, Governor of this British West Indies colony.

The landing was at 3:30 p. m. (local time).

Sir Errol Dos Santos, colonial secretary, and other notables joined in welcoming Mr. Truman. The music was provided by the Trinidad Police Force Band.

The President and his party will leave here early tomorrow for Rio de Janeiro, where he will address the final session of the hemisphere defense conference.

Inspects Guard Of Honor

As soon as the first greetings were exchanged, the band played "Hail To The Chief" and "The Star Spangled Banner," and "God Save The King," in rapid order.

The President, wearing a light tan suit, a buff-colored hat and two-toned shoes, inspected a guard of honor while the white-uniformed musicians, carefully rehearsed for the occasion, played the waltz that has become a part of nearly every public appearance of the President.

The plane carrying President Truman's party landed at the Army Air Force field here exactly seven hours and 40 minutes after its takeoff from Washington. The flight was made in ideal weather conditions.

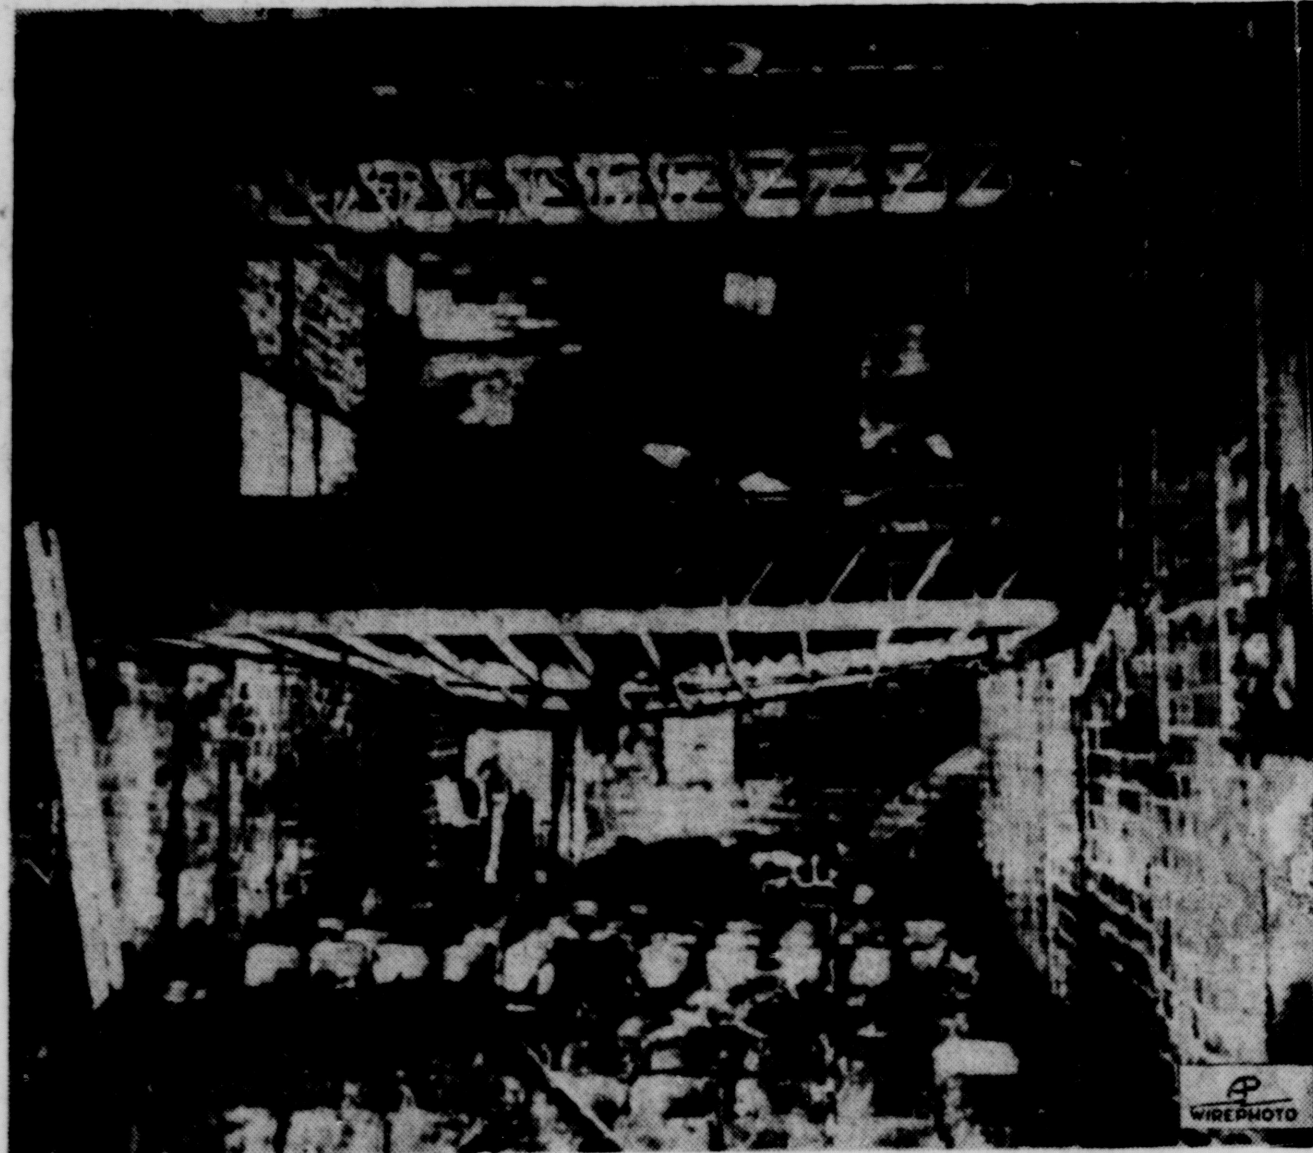

Charles Ross, the President's press secretary, said, "The President and everyone else is delighted with the new plane."

A hot sun beat down on the parched airfield as the President, his family, Brazilian Ambassador Carlos Martins and Mrs. Martin and other members of the party left the plane.

Another Stop Scheduled

The President, Mrs. Truman and Miss Truman were quartered for the night in "Jungle House," three miles from the airfield, as guests of Col. A. J. Becker, commanding officer of United States Ground Forces. The United States maintains military bases in Trinidad under an agreement with Great Britain.

The President is scheduled to take off between 1 and 2 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow. The plane will stop at Belem, Brazil, to refuel and then fly to Rio de Janeiro. It is estimated the President and his party will arrive in the Brazilian capital at 1 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

FRAULEIN TO BE SENT BACK TO REICH UNLESS LOVE CAN FIND WAY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Unless love finds a way blonde 24-year-old Francesca Varden Burch is going to be sent back to Germany despite her desire to remain in this country and marry a Portland, Ore., merchant seaman.

The Board of Review of the United States Immigration and Naturalization Department has recommended that Francesca be deported. And unless Commissioner Watson B. Miller differs with the board's findings the German girl probably will sail for her homeland by September 15.

Francesca wants to stay in the United States and marry Walter Leroy Strange, seaman accused of smuggling her into this city aboard his ship.

Steve Beville, Hammond, Ind., took the Kendall race for Mustangs and $3,000 first prize with an average speed of 384.6 miles an hour.

Kendall Everson, Cleveland, averaged 377.9 for $1,000 second money.

Last year's Thompson speed by Alvin (Tex) Johnson, Niagara Falls, N. Y., was 373.9. Johnson is not entered in this year's Thompson.

Levier Wins Soho

Beville and Everson both were above the 374 miles an hour record set by George Welch in a Mustang in the Miami, Fla., all-American maneuvers, recognized by the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association. The same Mustang will be flown tomorrow by Paul Penrose, North Hollywood, Calif., in the Thompson event.

Tony Levier, La Canada, Calif., second in the Thompson a year ago with his P-38 Lightning, won today's Soho race for Lightnings with a speed of 360.8 miles an hour. He also took $3,000 to add to $1,600 won earlier with the midget "Little Tony" racer in four sections of the Goodyear Trophy race.

Beville and Levier are among the 12 pilots who qualified for the Thompson event tomorrow. Beville had a qualifying run of 366.8 and Levier 366.6. Both were well under the Thompson qualifying speed of Cook Cleveland, who did 401.7 in his Corsair.

Ruth Johnson, Upland, Calif., set a new record for the Halle race for women with a speed of 223.3 miles an hour, compared with last year's winning time of 200 miles an hour. She took home a $2,500 first prize.

10 Races On Program

It was the busiest day of competition in the 20-year history of the National, 10 races being crowded into the program to take care of those affected by Saturday's cancellation, due to heavy rains.

Army Air Force Reports Enlistments On Upswing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Army Air Forces has recruited more than 30,000 men in the last few months in an effort to regain its wartime efficiency level.

Officials credited much of the upswing in enlistees to a new "career plan" offered by the AAF to high school graduates under which they are given a choice of training in various technical schools of the service.

Records show that while monthly recruiting totals for the AAF during the first part of the year ranged between 6,000 and 7,000 the June total was 10,500, July 12,500 and August about 11,000.

Ecuador Army Turns Against Col. Mancheno

Troops And Tanks Sent To Two Cities

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Army and constabulary officers rebelled in two cities of Ecuador last night against the week-old regime of Col. Carlos Mancheno, and today he sped troops and lend-lease tanks to quell the challenge to his virtual dictatorial powers.

The army turned against Mancheno in Riobamba, city of 24,000 in the State of Chimborazo, approximately 100 miles south of Quito, and in Guaranda, 20 miles west of Riobamba in adjoining Bolivar state.

The cabinet, after a lengthy emergency session, issued a communique describing the revolt in Riobamba as "a small, seditious outbreak whose brain-trusters (mentalizadores) are leaders of the Conservative Party," and asserting the government was in complete control "in the rest of the republic."

Mancheno Caught By Surprise

Mancheno, who ousted President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra in a bloodless "single shot" revolution last Sunday, was apparently caught by surprise with the new turn of events.

He was at Tulcan near the Colombian border, where he went yesterday to dedicate an airport. He hurried back to the capital, but not in time to attend the emergency session of the cabinet.

Quito remained calm, but Mancheno ordered all passenger traffic suspended on the railroads to facilitate immediate movement of troops and arms on the line leading to Riobamba.

Troops banned entrance to telephone offices, and bus and street car services were suspended in the city.

Troops and police seized the plants of the daily newspapers El Debate and La Patria. Both had supported the Conservative Party, which backed Velasco Ibarra.

Comdr. Luis Silva Vela, of the army's First Division, confirmed that the constabulary in Guaranda had rebelled, but asserted government troops were in control of the situation there.

Cabinet Holds Secret Session

Mancheno's cabinet, which he appointed last Monday, was called into hurried and secret session at the government palace about midnight. A strong guard of troops was thrown around the building while the ministers deliberated.

At the close of the meeting an official communique was issued saying "in the City of Riobamba yesterday afternoon there was a small seditious outbreak whose brain-trusters are leaders of the Conservative Party."

"The government maintains complete control of the situation in the rest of the public. The army and the constabulary remain loyal and eager to crush this unjustified reactionary sedition."

"The government will defend by all means at its disposal all democratic institutions. The people are for law and order in the country."

Minister of the Interior Julio Moreno Espinoza signed the communique in the absence of Mancheno.

Depression, War Freedom Threats, O'Mahoney Says

Declares Slump Can Be Prevented

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) today declared another depression might center all power in Washington and cost us "all freedom" but that it needn't happen.

"There is a purchasing power in the United States which is capable of keeping this country running on high for years to come," the senator told a reporter. But he warned that "charging all the traffic will bear" can undermine it.

O'Mahoney said that a forthcoming congressional investigation of prices and the rising cost of living will prove this:

"We can prevent a depression and guarantee a long period of prosperity that will make it possible for this country to lead the world to permanent peace."

Also today, he told a radio audience: "Full production in America is the path to peace. x x x The people of America, if their productive energy can be released, can lead the whole world to a new era of peace and prosperity. Production is the goal. Freedom here faces two perils. O'Mahoney continued—a new world war in which 'freedom would disappear' and another depression.

If the latter comes, the senator said, "with millions of unemployed, the government would have to step in, then we might have to give all power to Washington—to the government in Washington, and lose all freedom ourselves."

O'Mahoney declared that "some of our business leaders" are endangering production and inviting depression by charging too high prices.

"You don't need to increase prices," he said, "all that is needed is for business to increase production."

O'Mahoney advanced this program:

1. Tax reform to provide an incentive for investment of private capital in new business. He would reduce the rate on profits made by new business.

2. Strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws "so as to prevent agreements to fix prices, or to prevent agreements which would restrict the activities of the people."

3. National standards of responsibility for organized capital and labor.

The western senator is a member of the joint congressional economic committee which will hold public price hearings in three major sections of the nation during the next two months.

Gen. Wainwright, Hero Of Bataan, Goes On U. S. Army's Retired List

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, beloved hero of World War II, was retired from the Army today in ceremonies at historic Fort Sam Houston.

With a touch of sadness in his voice, the 64-year-old hero of Bataan humbly thanked his troops of the Fourth Army for their loyal support.

Speaking slowly and deliberately, he prefaced his farewell address with his own retirement order.

Although he stood erect, his shoulders squared and his head back, he was visibly affected by the tribute paid him.

The four-star General, who paid the price of America's unpreparedness in World War II, made no mention of the humiliation he suffered while a prisoner of the Japs for three years, three months and 19 days.

His eyes dropped slightly as Maj. Gen. John B. Coulter, who will succeed him as Fourth Army commander until September 15 when Gen. Thomas T. Handy assumes command, read messages of tribute from President Truman and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"This is not an occasion," he said, "at which I can open my brief remarks with the somewhat stereotyped statement that I am happy to be here."

"For the generous tribute you have paid me here today I am deeply grateful."

His troops stood in silent respect on the soft sodded grass of the parade grounds.

The retirement program was concluded with the singing of "Aud Lang Syne," his favorite song.

Tears came to the eyes of the General as the strains of the old Scottish song were sung in unison under the leadership of 18-year-old Robert W. Carver, of Trinity University here.

Anti-Red Stand Marks Windup Of Convention

Keep Atom Secrets, Nation Is Advised

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The American Legion today adopted a program for the coming year accentuating a militant anti-Communist stand at home and abroad and chose James F. O'Neil, Manchester, N. H., a World War One infantryman, as its new national commander.

The 49-year-old O'Neil, who is police chief in his home city, made plain in a brief acceptance talk to the 29th national convention that he was in full accord with the Legion's sharp denunciation of Communism.

He remarked, however, that he also would lead the fight on "other subversive elements." O'Neil was assailed by backers of his opponents as the choice of the legendary Legion "kingmakers" but he won an easy victory by acclamation.

The new national vice-commanders are:

Albert A. Cree, Rutland, Vt.; Richard B. Ott, Ritzville, Wash.; Roy Barnes, White Lakes, S. D.; Joseph White, College Park, Ga.; and Myron Renick, Fayetteville, W. Va.

Military Training Backed

In winding up the convention, the Legionnaires not only unloosed blasts against Communism but also recommended that the nation guard its greatest weapon by declining to reveal atomic energy secrets to anyone, and build up its manpower reservoir by adopting universal military training.

The convention gave full approval to the Marshall plan for aid to Europe after terming "the aggressive spirit of Communism the greatest menace facing America today," and called for outlawing of the Communist Party as a political group in the United States.

A spirited debate on veterans' housing brought the first roll call vote of the final session and resulted in a 2,796-to-722 defeat for proponents of the Wagner-Steagall housing bill, who had presented a minority report endorsing the measure.

The housing committee's majority report, quickly adopted after defeat of the minority proposals, called for election of all non-veterans from public housing projects with apartments to be turned over to former servicemen.

Priority for veterans in all future public housing projects also was urged.

The foreign relations committee report, which not only denounced Communism but also gave full support to the Truman administration's program for aid to Europe, was adopted with no dissenting "noes" heard after a minority report had been rejected on a voice vote.

Truman Doctrine Approved

The report specifically approved the Marshall plan, backed "our active policy in the Balkans," and strongly approved the Truman doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey.

It also urged the cutting off of potential war supplies and goods from "any nation threatening the peace of the world."

The report, prepared after consultation by the Legion committee with Assistant Secretary of State Robert Lovett in Washington, provoked a brief floor skirmish.

United States Sen. George Malone (R-Nev.) presented a minority report but the majority findings were adopted unanimously after they had been supported in a loudly applauded address by former Gov. Harold Stassen, of Minnesota, an avowed Republican presidential candidate.

Stassen, a member of the Minnesota delegation to the convention, brought a hush to the hubbub on the convention floor when he arose to support the majority report.

"There are two plans for Europe," he asserted. "One is the Marshall plan. The other is the Communist plan. If you oppose the Marshall plan for European recovery, then you will give comfort and aid to the Communist plan."

Efforts To Pin High Prices On Pay Hikes Alone Hit By Schwollenbach

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach, citing high farm prices and soaring business profits, said tonight he resents what he called "the widespread effort" to blame increased prices on wage boosts alone.

In another Labor Day statement, Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said that the wages of American workers have doubled since 1939. He said this move directed a 57 per cent advance in living costs and decreased value of the dollar.

American workers have "a substantially higher actual buying power than they had eight years ago," Bunting said.

More people per family are working, the N.A.M. chief declared, "and this fact should not be ignored when considering whether prices are too high to move all the goods which are being produced."

Labor costs come to 75 or 85 per cent of all expenses upon which consumer prices must be based, he said.

Schwollenbach said in a radio speech (MBS) that an effort is being made "to shift responsibility" for high prices "entirely to the organized workers of America."

He blamed "the same individuals" who in June, 1946, "promised that with the lifting of price controls within a few months prices would be lowered."

"The fact remains," the Labor Secretary stated, "that the price of products produced very largely by unorganized workers has increased 72 per cent, and those produced very largely by organized workers have increased 48 per cent."

He made this comparison between prices of food products and those of manufactured products while noting that farmers do not set their own prices.

Tony Levier, La Canada, Calif., second in the Thompson a year ago with his P-38 Lightning, won today's Soho race for Lightnings with a speed of 360.5 miles an hour. He also took $3,000 to add to $1,600 won earlier with the midget "Little Tony" racer in four sections of the Goodyear Trophy race.

Beville and Levier are among the 12 pilots who qualified for the Thompson event tomorrow. Beville had a qualifying run of 366.5 and Levier 366.6. Both were well under the Thompson qualifying speed of Cook Cleveland, who did 401.7 in his Corsair.

Ruth Johnson, Upland, Calif., set a new record for the Halk race for women with a speed of 223.3 miles an hour, compared with last year's winning time of 200 miles an hour. She took home a $2,500 first prize.

16 Races On Program

It was the busiest day of competition in the 20-year history of the National, 10 races being crowded into the program to take care of those affected by Saturday's cancellation due to heavy rains.

300-Mile Thompson To Be Staged Today

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31 (AP)—Two pilots whizzed through a 105-mile race for P-51 Mustangs at the National Air Races today at speeds better than the winning pace in last year's 300-mile Thompson Trophy classic, and above the recognized world record for closed course events.

The Thompson will be the closing feature of the racing program tomorrow.

Steve Beville, Hammond, Ind., took the Kendall race for Mustangs and $3,000 first prize with an average speed of 364.5 miles an hour.

Kendall Everson, Cleveland, averaged 377.9 for $1,000 second money.

Last year's Thompson speed by Alvin (Tex) Johnson, Niagara Falls, N. Y., was 373.9. Johnson is not entered in this year's Thompson.

Liever Wins Soho

Beville and Everson both were above the 374 miles an hour record set by George Welch in a Mustang in the Miami, Fla., all-American maneuvers, recognized by the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association. The same Mustang will be flown tomorrow by Paul Penrose, North Hollywood, Calif., in the Thompson event.

Beall Tossed 21 Bills Into House Hopper Last Year

64 Measures Offered By Md. Congressmen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Maryland congressmen sponsored 64 of the 4,810 bills thrown in the House hopper last session, a survey showed today.

Rep. Beall, Republican, of Frostburg, led the list with 21. Of these 14 were in connection with his work on the House District of Columbia Committee.

Many of the measures introduced by six Free State members were concerned with Maryland interests.

Others were general in scope, varying from a bill proposed by Rep. Sasser, Upper Marlboro Democrat, to declare Good Friday a legal holiday to one by Rep. Meade, Baltimore Democrat, to authorize local communities to levy taxes on federal-owned real estate.

Nineteen private bills were in the state's total. This legislation sponsoring the claim of an individual or group for money claims or damages against the government.

Sasser introduced 10 such private bills.

Thomas D'Alessandro, Mayor of Baltimore, sponsored six bills before he resigned to take over his new office.

Of the thousands of measures introduced in the House and Senate, 21 were of routine private bills, only 388 were enacted into law.

This is Beall's box score:

Besides the District legislation, he sponsored a measure to authorize Maryland to construct a bridge across the Chesapeake from Sandy Point to Kent Island, a bill to provide recreational facilities in the Catoctin National Park area and a bill to amend the Social Security Act to include certain state and municipal employees. He also proposed a law to exempt from manufacturers' excise tax certain articles sold to non-profit fire companies. One bill proposed restoration of the Francis Scott Key home.

WRONG AGAIN, FOLKS—This is NOT a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of the Wearing of Long Underwear but the start of a three-mile relay race for GAR members in Washington's baseball park back in 1913. The athlete in the trick sweater (extreme right) led the winners.

this woman. No woman is able to flirt with a man unless the man is responsive. If her husband wanted to discourage the flirtatious spinster's advances, there is nothing in the world to prevent him. To put all the blame on her is like getting angry at the hammer when you pound your finger with it.

My correspondent goes on to say that the woman in question is known to have had an affair with somebody else's husband. But this seems to me somewhat beside the point, for, here again, she would have got nowhere if the man had not been willing.

The letter concludes with this question: "Why do these women go into their 30s without finding some unattached male for companionship? What fun do they get from going among married people and trying to win happily married men?"

Here she is again, blaming the women bitterly, not only forgetting what I have been saying—that it takes two to make a flirtation—but ignoring the fact that such women are greatly in a minority.

It seems to me that, in a case of this sort, a wife would be wise not to let herself be vexed about "the other woman." However much she may be at fault, the husband who is an easy mark is more so. But this does not mean that the wife should go after her husband's head and nail on the sub! It is silly of him to make a spectacle of himself, of course, but if it doesn't go any further than a harmless flirtation at a party, the wise wife will either laugh it off or ignore it.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Problems Should Be Analyzed Down To Fundamentals

By SEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

One of the things for a person to do when confronted by a problem is to get clearly in mind what the problem is. So many people who write me about their emotional tangles are twice as confused as they need to be, just because they have never taken the trouble to analyze the problem down to its fundamentals. In most cases, they have not even realized the necessity for doing this. And in many other instances, I am afraid, even if they succeeded in uncovering the rock-bottom issues, they fail to recognize them, or are unwilling to do so.

A woman who writes me a letter complaining about "the odd unattached women who go out among married people causing distress and suspicion by their innocent, sneaky ways," is one of those, I am inclined to believe, who may be reluctant to face the actual facts of the situation, even when they have been pointed out to her.

Her complaint arises from the fact that one attached woman apparently makes a play for her husband whenever they encounter her at a party. She says:

"I have a friend of many years' standing who insists on having a certain woman friend of hers in her home every time she invites my husband and myself there. This woman monopolized my husband until I could not continue being a good sport, and told my friend so in no uncertain terms. Now she accuses me of being jealous and in fear of losing my husband to this woman. God knows that is far from the truth."

Now right here, in the beginning, she is refusing to face the fact that she obviously is jealous. Whether she is actually afraid of losing her husband, I would not venture to say. It doesn't necessarily follow, just because she doesn't care to see him flirting with another woman. But she would put herself in a much better position to solve her problem if she would be honest enough to admit her jealousy.

Now let's go on from there. "Things got so bad," she continues, "that other people began to notice this woman making a spectacle of herself with my husband, and I began to feel left-out and humiliated. I talked to my husband and tried to make him see how foolish he is, but he claims he is only trying to be a gentleman. This is causing a lot of arguments between us."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

Bob Yates died the other day. Who was Bob Yates? No one in particular. Just a fellow I went to school with some years back.

I went up to the funeral parlor where Bob was laid out in a satin-lined box. He seemed relaxed and comfortable and there was a little smile on his lips. At the funeral next day, something happened that made me kind of understand that smile.

Bob was born in a cold-water tenement in New York. The doctor was two hours late arriving—he had to deliver another baby first.

As a kid, Bob had to wait for his older brothers to outgrow their clothes before he could get the hand-me-downs. And he had to wait at the baby dispensary and the free milk station.

At school, he lined up for his books, the march to and from assembly, fire drills, and, finally, for his diploma. Yates remembered 6B as the happiest term of his school days. There was a Serbian kid named Zibinski in his class that year, and for the first time somebody was behind him in the alphabetical order.

Times were pretty tough around this country when Bob got out of school. There were long lines of men waiting to be interviewed for jobs. Bob finally landed one as messenger boy for Postal Telegraph and spent most of his days waiting around to be sent out with a message. And then there was the Hoover winter when he stood in line with thousands of others to get a bowl of soup.

"I wouldn't mind all this waiting," Bob used to say, "if it wasn't for my feet."

One day he met a girl and took her to a movie. After waiting in line for the best part of an hour they finally got seats in the balcony. Two years later he married her. He had to wait until she divorced her first husband.

In 1942 he was invited to join the Army. Even Bob had never seen such lines as the ones at the induction center. At the end of one line a doctor looked at Bob's feet. "Sure are flat," he said. "Don't worry, though. You'll do for limited service."

At reception center, there were lines for shots, clothes, inspection, chow, pay, movies, PX supplies. At the end of one line Bob was loaded on a truck and informed he was in the infantry.

Halfway through his first 20-mile hike, he keeled over. He was revived and directed to a medical line. After two months of waiting around a hospital, Bob received his discharge. When he got home he found his wife had grown tired of waiting and had gone off with the fellow who had the local juke box concession.

Civilian lines had grown much longer. It was necessary to queue up for cigarettes, soap, shirts, a table at a restaurant. But for a change there were plenty of jobs around. Bob got work at a war plant in New Jersey. The personnel director assigned him to waiting on tables in the executives' dining room.

When he applied for a divorce on the grounds of desertion, he was informed that under the laws of New Jersey he would have to wait two years.

But he didn't. Last week, while waiting for his "next" in a barber-shop, he dropped dead of a heart attack. The fellow next to him said, "Holy smoke! And he had just asked to see the copy of Life when I was through looking at it!"

It wasn't much of a funeral—just the family and a few friends. On the way out to the cemetery, the little procession came to a railroad crossing. A freight train came along and the guard rails dropped just as the hearse was about to cross the tracks. There was a fifteen minute wait while a mile-long line of freight cars rumbled by.

That was when I kind of understood the smile on Bob's face. He had finally worked himself into a spot where he could wait lying down.

FLAG SOON MAY HAVE 49TH STAR

AFTER 47 years of waiting, Hawaii looks forward to a favorable U.S. Senate vote that would make her the 49th State of the Union. The House has approved by a vote of 196 to 133—the opponents taking the attitude that the mixture of populations in the Islands should be carefully considered. Hawaii became a territory in 1900. Since then, three States that were territories have been added. They were: Oklahoma in 1907 and New Mexico and Arizona in 1912. The time at which each state joined the Union is indicated on the field of stars (below). At left are the main islands in the central group.

Sales Tax Exemption Certificates Issued

Nearly 1,000 retail sales tax exemptions have been issued to institutions which are exempt under the Maryland tax act. Comptroller James J. Laoy announced yesterday.

The act which was passed by the 1947 session of the state General Assembly exempts the tax from sales to any person operating a non-profit religious, non-profit charitable, non-profit scientific, non-profit literary or non-profit educational institution situated in the state of Maryland, when such taxable tangible personal property is purchased for use in carrying on the work of the institution.

Portrait Of Danger As It Relates To U. S. And Russia

Americans who sincerely want to understand the problem inherent in United States relations with Russia will find instruction in a government document made public a few days ago. It is not pleasant reading. In fact, it is disturbing and alarming. But it deals with truths that cannot be ignored. The document deserves far wider publicity than it has received.

The document on Soviet foreign policy prepared for the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee by experts of the Library of Congress. It is based on months of study by its authors tried to make as completely objective as "humanly possible." It discusses Soviet aims and Soviet methods dispassionately but bluntly and, so doing, paints a picture that must be recognized as a portrait of danger.

What is the Russian goal? The report says: "The summit of communist hopes and aspirations is, in the last analysis, today as in Lenin's time, a complete change of the world's political, economic, social and cultural set-up, and at the base of Soviet foreign policy lies the desire to make the world safe for communism and sovietism."

What are the Russian methods? Says the report: "The bolsheviks are prepared to play any card available at any time. . . the ends certainly count more in the eyes of the Communists than the means applied in attainment."

Can the United States live in peace with a nation ruled by a regime of this kind? The answer is that it is possible only if this country is prepared to be constantly watchful and constantly ready for any emergency. No doubt the Russians hope to achieve their purposes peacefully—but they are determined to achieve them if they can.

This nation's only sensible course is to make it clear, now and always, that the American people stand in the way.

Which brings up the thought, will the veto be the rock on which the United Nations founders? This question may reflect too dark a view of the organization's future, but it is still a fact that states both large and small and constituting more than a U. N. majority are growing steadily more restless under Russia's misuse of power. It is one reason that American-Russian relations, after going from bad to worse (as pointed out in the United States government document referred to here), steadily during the past year, are deteriorating rapidly. They are now at an all-time low.

The Soviet has resorted to the veto 19 times in the Security Council and has thus been able to thwart the will of nine of the 10 other countries. Obviously, this cannot go on forever if U. N. is to be anything more than a debating society.

The trouble, as has been pointed out repeatedly, is not with the veto power itself but with the abuse of it. The United States was one of the nations which insisted on the right to exercise the veto. Even now it probably would not be willing to give it up entirely and thus put itself, as well as the four other great powers which won the war, at the mercy of a coalition of small nations.

Nevertheless, something must be done or the U. N. will gradually disintegrate. To talk about restricting the veto power by amending the Charter is merely a waste of time. The Charter can be changed but to do so requires a two-thirds majority, including all the five big nations. So the Soviet again could block action and undoubtedly would—to attain its aims.

As a result of all this, the area of bitter disagreement encircles the globe. These provocative Soviet moves follow hard upon Moscow's propaganda offensive to wreck the inter-American defense conference in Brazil. In Austria, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary—as earlier in Poland, Yugoslavia and elsewhere—Reds maintain a minority dictatorship. Austria's western provinces are still safe for the moment, thanks to British-American military occupation; but Russia in her zone is breaking the Potsdam agreement, and blocking a peace treaty, in hope of taking over Austria.

The question is whether the western powers will continue to be paralyzed by the Potsdam Pact which Moscow scrapped two years ago. Or will they accept as a fact the division of Germany long-since created by Russia, and themselves hasten to get west German production going? Unless the rich Ruhr can be converted from an American-subsidized liability into an asset for Europe, the chances of the Marshall self-help plan for Europe are nil. That goes for British recovery too.

The conflict between Russia and the western powers—especially the United States as the leader and powerhouse of the west—is spreading fast for an obvious reason. Time is short. The west is losing the battle against economic collapse and political chaos in Europe and Asia—collapse and chaos which would give the remnants to the Reds by default.

But that economic and political battle need not be lost if the western powers stop abetting Soviet sabotage by their future waiting for Red co-operation.

Of course, with the constant Russian veto a stone around the necks of those nations striving to bring about a permanent peace, progress is going to be slow unless there could be formed a completely new organization with Russia left out. But this would be a cumbersome way of doing things and would only make the Soviet more aggressive and a greater menace to peace. So, barring a change of heart on the part of Moscow, apparently the world is stymied in its efforts to prevent war through co-operative action.

Strain On Schools

More babies will be born in the United States this year than in any former year in history, including the record breaker of 1946, according to the figures of an ever alert life insurance company.

On the face of things, this big birth rate is nothing to worry about. It is the result of a multitude of marriages after the boys were demobilized and the return home of hundreds of husbands who had been in the armed services. And boom times always result in a boost in the birth rate.

But to school boards the situation calls for thought. All of these babies will be ready for school before most persons realize time has flown so swiftly. School enrollment will take a big spurt in a few years, at which time the old cry little heard since the 1920s for new and enlarged buildings will again be released in the land.

THIN AND UNHAPPY

THERE are few perfect figures. Yet it seems that the majority of American women would like to achieve the Hollywood type of contour. This means that a large number are trying to reduce and a smaller group wish to become more curvaceous. In either case, the job may not be easy, especially if the weight abnormality has existed for some years.

The correction of underweight usually calls for the consumption of more calories, and sometimes nothing more than eating a hearty lunch and drinking a pint of milk daily will add the needed poundage. Others are successful when they increase the intake at each meal.

But many slim persons complain of lack of appetite. The explanation may lie in the fact that out-of-door exercise has been neglected. In the circumstances, a daily walk will work wonders. It may be that the individual is working too hard, for it is well known that fatigue decreases the desire to eat. Overindulgence in tobacco and alcohol will do the same. Heredity cannot be overlooked in searching for the cause since many families specialize in streamlined members.

In any case, an examination is advised as part of the building up program and the physician will want to check not only the physical factors but the emotional life of the patient. In many instances, psychic disturbances are responsible and it will not be possible to alter the weight unless the habit patterns and attitudes are changed.

We all "go off our feed" occasionally, particularly when we are upset mentally. Illness or death in the family and financial difficulties are common origins but there are many other causes such as anticipation of a trip or falling in love can dampen appetite. But the chronically slim, undernourished person has a deeper problem. His home or working environment may be unsatisfactory, keeping him under a constant strain. It may be that his wife is a poor cook and serves unsavory meals routinely; the rising costs of food may make him unable to enjoy his regular fare; or he may be a food faddist or have so many aversions that his menus are restricted sharply.

Bad habits are difficult to break and this applies to eating as well as everything else. Dietary preferences are formed through experiences, associations, geographic locations and cultural backgrounds. But in general, all foods, particularly if well prepared and served attractively, are acceptable to the majority. While every one develops aversions to certain items, the situation is not important since we have such a wide variety of edibles to select from and substitutes may be made. But when there are more dislikes than likes, the subject is generally markedly underweight and shows evidence of malnutrition. If the emotional life of such men and women can be adjusted through mental and physical hygiene, increased weight, strength and joy of living usually follow.

WART REMOVAL

F. T. writes: Are venereal warts curable?

REPLY

Yes, there are as many remedies available as for ordinary warts.

ITCHING

J. A. G. writes: Has ultra-violet any value in pruritus?

REPLY

This depends upon the type and the cause. In some cases of itching, dryness is extreme and soothing lotions would be preferred.

POISON IVY

H. T. writes: I am going to the country on my vacation and am afraid of poison ivy. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

The best plan is to learn to recognize the "leaflets three" and "leave them be." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this nuisance.

ERRONEOUS REASONING

M. V. writes: Could lungs filled with poison pus be the cause of a terrible case of dry eczema?

REPLY

Probably not. Eczema can result from sensitivity to some food, medicine, or external agent.

DIVERTICULI

G. T. writes: What makes pockets in the bowel?

REPLY

No one knows but the presence of these lesions is so prevalent after the age of 50 that it is believed to be due to a degenerative process. In many instances the outpocketings arise at the site where the blood vessels enter the structure.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Marines were a little annoyed last week when that Navy pilot broke the world's speed record by doing 640 miles per hour over the Muroc Field. They weren't going to be caught with their jets down, so they took the situation in hand by sending up Marine Pilot Marion E. Carl, who . . . on orders from his superior officer, proceeded to break the Navy's record by doing 650 per hour. What some guys will do for a weekend pass. From the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli is now just a five-minute hop.

This intermilitary rivalry is bound to push that speed mark into the thousand mile per hour class. I understand the Army isn't taking the Marine record lying down. It is now hurrying to make its own pamphlets to Flash Gordon.

Of course, we haven't as yet heard from the Coast Guard; no one knows this yet, but they are secretly developing a flying submarine with a mounted mixer propelled by bicarbonated rockets. It's reported to go as fast as today's dollar bill.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Green To Continue As President Of A. F. of L., Whose Squabbling Chiefs Can't Decide On Successor; Farm Mortgage Corp.—Federal Agency—Shows Profit

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON. — Contrary to plans, this will NOT be 75-year-old William Green's last Labor Day as president of the American Federation of Labor.

He will be re-elected for another (his 24th) term at the AFL convention in San Francisco in October. Weary and ailing, Green had intended to close his active career this year. After his re-election at the 1946 convention, he stated privately it would be his last term. But two major developments have changed the situation.

One was the inability of the inner clique of AFL rulers to get together on a successor to Green. While he is president, Green is actually little more than a figurehead. Real AFL control is wielded by a small coterie consisting of John L. Lewis, William ("Big Bill") Hutchison, carpenter boss; Daniel Tobin, teamsters czar; and George Meany, burly AFL secretary-treasurer.

All these moguls, plus sundry other lesser ones, want Green's job. Power-hungry Lewis is particularly hot after it. He made strenuous efforts to get it a quarter of a century after the death of Samuel Gompers. But other ambitious aspirants scuttled Lewis, who in turn blocked them from snatching the prize. That was how Green got it. He was a relatively unimportant officer in Lewis's miners union, and was accepted as a compromise choice.

At the time, the squabbling AFL chiefs figured Green would hold the presidency only for a year or so until they could get together among themselves. But that was the big hitch. They never could get together, and rather than allow one of their number to get the office, they continued to re-elect Green.

After 24 years, the same situation still largely prevails. While nominally pals, none is eager to see one of the others in the top job. That is particularly true as regards Lewis, whose autocratic proclivities are well known to them.

The other factor influencing the continuance of Green is the Taft-Hartley Act. The AFL is planning an all-out election fight next year against Congressional supporters of this law. Unity within the AFL is vital. A free-for-all over the Federation's president might endanger unity. So Green will be kept on—barring some unpredictable upset by Lewis.

If he is planning any apparent booting he will probably do it at the executive council meeting September 8 in Chicago. Final convention arrangements will be decided there. Also, Green intends to announce he will run again.

No upset is expected in inner AFL circles. But Lewis is a law unto himself, and as long as he's around anything can happen.

Note: Meany, New York Republican and a Dewey backer, hopes eventually to land Green's job as a compromise candidate.

Unprecedented Agency This is a story about a remarkable Government lending agency. Instead of losing money, it has made a great deal of it. $105,000,000 to be exact.

The phenomenon is the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, created in 1934 by the New Deal when Henry Wallace was Secretary of Agriculture. Further, the man chiefly responsible for the success of FFMC is a professor. He is Dr. William I. Myers, dean of Cornell University's Agricultural School, and the first head of the agency.

The FFMC bill was introduced in Congress as an emergency measure to bolster the depression-racked farm economy. It was frankly admitted the Corporation probably would lose a great deal of money. But it was held the measure was necessary to halt the flood of foreclosure and bankruptcies then engulfing farmers.

To raise the Corporation's capital, Dr. Myers embarked on a bold gamble. He bought hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of 4 per cent interest Federal Land Bank bonds with Government-guaranteed 3 and 3½ per cent FFMC bonds. The profit in the interest was designed to offset the risk involved in lending to mortgage-laden farmers.

In the 13 years of its operations, FFMC has loaned a total of $1,200,000,000. The severe drought year of 1936 was the peak, with $837,000,000 in outstanding loans.

The war saved the Corporation. More than 250,000 farmers paid off their mortgages in full. In the past six years, FFMC has collected $500,000,000 in repayments. The Corporation is now starting to liquidate. This will take time as there is still $135,000,000 in outstanding loans. Corporation officials are hoping debtors' farmers will pay up while agriculture is still prosperous.

Meanwhile the Corporation has a surplus of $105,000,000. And unlike the RFC which is $9,000,000 in the red, FFMC officials are in no fear of a Congressional investigation. Congress thinks so highly of the agency that, at the last session, its budget was untouched.

Chief operating official of FFMC is executive vice president Harris Willingham, tall, drawing Virginia, who whimsically describes his agency as "a vivid case of man biting dog."

Thomas Baird, of the British Information Service, was a pioneer in the development of the documentary film in Great Britain and in 1937 came to the United States as a fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation to help develop American documentary films. Here he expresses a British opinion of American radio.

By THOMAS BAIRD
A British Opinion of U. S.

You have asked me to give you some of my thoughts about American radio.

There are, in spite of my not being an inveterate listener, certain "musts" in the week: Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen (for my wife and me), and Fred Allen (but only for my wife). I think this makes about my best listening hours in the week. Both shows are extremely well written and both succeed on the strength of personalities. Bergen's Charlie McCarthy is perhaps the more obvious, being created entirely by art, but is still a sheer joy. I suppose the highbrows would say that he is Chaplinesque or Peter Panish, meaning, perhaps, that we all like to see the little man "get away with it" and that we all hold romantic illusions of our childhood and like to have our beliefs in our childish pranks reinforced and our memories brushed up. We all like to see the "freshness" (which we never dare employ) win the day.

Fred Allen defies analysis by your humble correspondent. Much of the success of his show depends on good scripts with such bad bits included that the good bits sound even better than they are. Yet much of Allen's own material is just not funny. But by timing and heightening our expectations, he can make the shine on a threadbare joke glitter. Burns and Allen, while not musts, are, however, regulars and we forgive their lapses because they are old friends.

Fibber McGee and Molly, whom we mention last of the vaudevillians, are really our top selection. This show we find irresistible and I have asked myself: why? I think it is because more than any other show Fibber McGee and Molly have a visual quality. True, they use music and commercials and wisecracks and stock situations, but the essence of their success lies in their ability to construct, before the mind's eye, a physical setting—a street, a house, an untidy cupboard (like ours), a faulty spring blind (like yours), and a doorknob (like the one next door).

I don't think we shall miss the commercials when we get back to Britain—but I hesitate to be dogmatic, for some of these jingles and exaggerated pleas and these urgent instructions to rush to the corner drugstore are little symbols of the America we have come to love. In letters from England, friends tell us that even in the heart of London, they have caught themselves whistling "Pepi's Song" or humming Super Suds and they confess that in these moments, they have much sentimental affection for America.

Flowers Of The Field
Wonder haunts us—certainly those of us who are born sensitive to the sight of all natural beauty, or to the touch of fragrance to our nostrils, without a calendar, or to the unknown and receive nothing in reply. Why the flowers of the field? Why the white water lily that springs into the sunshine from mud and stagnancy?

How appropriate that a field of daffodils should become the memorial to William Wordsworth, the poet, who loved them so! Emerson, in writing of Thoreau, said that he could almost make the day of the month without a calendar, just from the appearance of certain flowers, slated to appear at that time!

The discovery of each flower thrills me and I am not satisfied until I learn its name. Nearly every summer, at Weskewaena, I discover a new variety and it's always like meeting a new and welcomed friend. Flowers express so much. I have never seen a smile upon a human face more open, expressive, and so full of divine invitation, as that which faces me as I write. It is from the white water lily, beaming its purity and gold right into my heart.

The miracle of creation is ever upon us. Our very oneness with all life and all nature is forever evident. Each breath of wind is a caress from the Almighty. Said Mary Webb: "The glory of any flower is not of stillness, but of faint glances of movement that we cannot see. The widening and lengthening of petals, the furling and unfurling of leaves, are too gentle for our uneducated eyes."

Look upon the bedtime hour of a flower and you will view the same delightful drowsiness that we all experience, after a day of joy and work. It too, wishes a period of rest before its final sleep. The cheer of the flowers of the field, and the fragrance of earth, are a combination that outwills all remedies for sick souls!

I have loved Texas doubly since first viewing a field of its beautiful blue-bonnets! Like a silken garment waving its delicate color across the landscape in an ecstasy of joy. The smell of a single flower has often healed many a hidden hurt.

Radio in Review

Thomas Baird, of the British Information Service, was a pioneer in the development of the documentary film in Great Britain and in 1937 came to the United States as a fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation to help develop American documentary films. Here he expresses a British opinion of American radio.

By THOMAS BAIRD
A British Opinion of U. S.

You have asked me to give you some of my thoughts about American radio.

There are, in spite of my not being an inveterate listener, certain "musts" in the week: Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen (for my wife and me), and Fred Allen (but only for my wife). I think this makes about my best listening hours in the week. Both shows are extremely well written and both succeed on the strength of personalities. Bergen's Charlie McCarthy is perhaps the more obvious, being created entirely by art, but is still a sheer joy. I suppose the highbrows would say that he is Chaplinesque or Peter Panish, meaning, perhaps, that we all like to see the little man "get away with it" and that we all hold romantic illusions of our childhood and like to have our beliefs in our childish pranks reinforced and our memories brushed up. We all like to see the "freshness" (which we never dare employ) win the day.

Fred Allen defies analysis by your humble correspondent. Much of the success of his show depends on good scripts with such bad bits included that the good bits sound even better than they are. Yet much of Allen's own material is just not funny. But by timing and heightening our expectations, he can make the shine on a threadbare joke glitter. Burns and Allen, while not musts, are, however, regulars and we forgive their lapses because they are old friends.

Fibber McGee and Molly, whom we mention last of the vaudevillians, are really our top selection. This show we find irresistible and I have asked myself: why? I think it is because more than any other show Fibber McGee and Molly have a visual quality. True, they use music and commercials and wisecracks and stock situations, but the essence of their success lies in their ability to construct, before the mind's eye, a physical setting—a street, a house, an untidy cupboard (like ours), a faulty spring blind (like yours), and a doorknob (like the one next door).

I don't think we shall miss the commercials when we get back to Britain—but I hesitate to be dogmatic, for some of these jingles and exaggerated pleas and these urgent instructions to rush to the corner drugstore are little symbols of the America we have come to love. In letters from England, friends tell us that even in the heart of London, they have caught themselves whistling "Pepi's Song" or humming Super Suds and they confess that in these moments, they have much sentimental affection for America.

Flowers Of The Field
Wonder haunts us—certainly those of us who are born sensitive to the sight of all natural beauty, or to the touch of fragrance to our nostrils, without a calendar, or to the unknown and receive nothing in reply. Why the flowers of the field? Why the white water lily that springs into the sunshine from mud and stagnancy?

How appropriate that a field of daffodils should become the memorial to William Wordsworth, the poet, who loved them so! Emerson, in writing of Thoreau, said that he could almost make the day of the month without a calendar, just from the appearance of certain flowers, slated to appear at that time!

The discovery of each flower thrills me and I am not satisfied until I learn its name. Nearly every summer, at Weskewaena, I discover a new variety and it's always like meeting a new and welcomed friend. Flowers express so much. I have never seen a smile upon a human face more open, expressive, and so full of divine invitation, as that which faces me as I write. It is from the white water lily, beaming its purity and gold right into my heart.

The miracle of creation is ever upon us. Our very oneness with all life and all nature is forever evident. Each breath of wind is a caress from the Almighty. Portrait Of Danger As It Relates To U. S. And Russia

Americans who sincerely want to understand the problem inherent in United States relations with Russia will find instruction in a government document made public a few days ago. It is not pleasant reading. In fact, it is disturbing and alarming. But it deals with truths that cannot be ignored. The document deserves far wider publicity than it has received.

The document on Soviet foreign policy prepared for the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee by experts of the Library of Congress. It is based on months of study by its authors tried to make as completely objective as "humanly possible." It discusses Soviet aims and Soviet methods dispassionately but bluntly and, so doing, paints a picture that must be recognized as a portrait of danger.

What is the Russian goal? The report says: "The summit of communist hopes and aspirations is, in the last analysis, today as in Lenin's time, a complete change of the world's political, economic, social and cultural set-up, and at the base of Soviet foreign policy lies the desire to make the world safe for communism and sovietism."

What are the Russian methods? Says the report: "The bolsheviks are prepared to play any card available at any time. . . the ends certainly count more in the eyes of the Communists than the means applied in attaining them."

Can the United States live in peace with a nation ruled by a regime of this kind? The answer is that it is possible only if this country is prepared to be constantly watchful and constantly ready for any emergency. No doubt the Russians hope to achieve their purposes peacefully—but they are determined to achieve them if they can.

This nation's only sensible course is to make it clear, now and always, that the American people stand in the way.

Which brings up the thought, will the veto be the rock on which the United Nations founders? This question may reflect too dark a view of the organization's future, but it is still a fact that states both large and small and constituting more than a U. N. majority are growing steadily more restless under Russia's misuse of power. It is one reason that American-Russian relations, after going from bad to worse (as pointed out in the United States government document referred to here), steadily during the past year, are deteriorating rapidly. They are now at an all-time low.

The Soviet has resorted to the veto 19 times in the Security Council and has thus been able to thwart the will of nine of the 10 other countries. Obviously, this cannot go on forever if U. N. is to be anything more than a debating society.

The trouble, as has been pointed out repeatedly, is not with the veto power itself but with the abuse of it. The United States was one of the nations which insisted on the right to exercise the veto. Even now it probably would not be willing to give it up entirely and thus put itself, as well as the four other great powers which won the war, at the mercy of a coalition of small nations.

Nevertheless, something must be done or the U. N. will gradually disintegrate. To talk about restricting the veto power by amending the Charter is merely a waste of time. The Charter can be changed but to do so requires a two-thirds majority, including all the five big nations. So the Soviet again could block action and undoubtedly would—to attain its aims.

As a result of all this, the area of bitter disagreement encircles the globe. These provocative Soviet moves follow hard upon Moscow's propaganda offensive to wreck the inter-American defense conference in Brazil. In Austria, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary—as earlier in Poland, Yugoslavia and elsewhere—Reds maintain a minority dictatorship. Austria's western provinces are still safe for the moment, thanks to British-American military occupation; but Russia in her zone is breaking the Potsdam agreement, and blocking a peace treaty, in hope of taking over Austria.

The question is whether the western powers will continue to be paralyzed by the Potsdam Pact which Moscow scrapped two years ago. Or will they accept as a fact the division of Germany long-since created by Russia, and themselves hasten to get west German production going? Unless the rich Ruhr can be converted from an American-subsidized liability into an asset for Europe, the chances of the Marshall self-help plan for Europe are nil. That goes for British recovery too.

The conflict between Russia and the western powers—especially the United States as the leader and powerhouse of the west—is spreading fast for an obvious reason. Time is short. The west is losing the battle against economic collapse and political chaos in Europe and Asia—collapse and chaos which would give the remnants to the Reds by default.

But that economic and political battle need not be lost if the western powers stop abetting Soviet sabotage by their future waiting for Red co-operation.

Of course, with the constant Russian veto a stone around the necks of those nations striving to bring about a permanent peace, progress is going to be slow unless there could be formed a completely new organization with Russia left out. But this would be a cumbersome way of doing things and would only make the Soviet more aggressive and a greater menace to peace. So, barring a change of heart on the part of Moscow, apparently the world is stymied in its efforts to prevent war through co-operative action.

Strain On Schools

More babies will be born in the United States this year than in any former year in history, including the record breaker of 1946, according to the figures of an ever alert life insurance company.

On the face of things, this big birth rate is nothing to worry about. It is the result of a multitude of marriages after the boys were demobilized and the return home of hundreds of husbands who had been in the armed services. And boom times always result in a boost in the birth rate.

But to school boards the situation calls for thought. All of these babies will be ready for school before most persons realize time has flown so swiftly. School enrollment will take a big spurt in a few years, at which time the old cry little heard since the 1920s for new and enlarged buildings will again be released in the land.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THIN AND UNHAPPY

There are few perfect figures. Yet it seems that the majority of American women would like to achieve the Hollywood type of contour. This means that a large number are trying to reduce and a smaller group wish to become more curvaceous. In either case, the job may not be easy, especially if the weight abnormality has existed for some years.

The correction of underweight usually calls for the consumption of more calories, and sometimes nothing more than eating a hearty lunch and drinking a pint of milk daily will add the needed poundage. Others are successful when they increase the intake at each meal.

But many slim persons complain of lack of appetite. The explanation may lie in the fact that out-of-door exercise has been neglected. In the circumstances, a daily walk will work wonders. It may be that the individual is working too hard, for it is well known that fatigue decreases the desire to eat. Overindulgence in tobacco and alcohol will do the same. Heredity cannot be overlooked in searching for the cause since many families specialize in streamlined members.

In any case, an examination is advised as part of the building up program and the physician will want to check not only the physical factors but the emotional life of the patient. In many instances, psychic disturbances are responsible and it will not be possible to alter the weight unless the habit patterns and attitudes are changed.

We all "go off our feed" occasionally, particularly when we are upset mentally. Illness or death in the family and financial difficulties are common origins but even pleasant excitement such as anticipation of a trip or falling in love can dampen appetite. But the chronically slim, undernourished person has a deeper problem. His home or working environment may be unsatisfactory, keeping him under a constant strain. It may be that his wife is a poor cook and serves unappetizing meals routinely; the rising costs of food may make him unable to enjoy his meat; or he may be a food faddist or have so many aversions that his menus are restricted sharply.

Bad habits are difficult to break and this applies to eating as well as everything else. Dietary preferences are formed through experiences, associations, geographic locations and cultural backgrounds. But in general, all foods, particularly if well prepared and served attractively, are acceptable to the majority. While every one develops aversions to certain items, the situation is not important since we have such a wide variety of edibles to select from and substitutes may be made. But when there are more dislikes than likes, the subject is generally markedly underweight and shows evidence of malnutrition. If the emotional life of such men and women can be adjusted through mental and physical hygiene, increased weight, strength and joy of living usually follows.

WART REMOVAL

F. T. writes: Are venereal warts curable?

REPLY: Yes, there are as many remedies available as for ordinary warts.

ITCHING

J. A. G. writes: Has ultra-violet any value in pruritus?

REPLY: This depends upon the type and the cause. In some cases of itching, dryness is extreme and soothing lotions would be preferred.

POISON IVY

H. T. writes: I am going to the country on my vacation and am afraid of poison ivy. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY: The best plan is to learn to recognize the "leaflets three" and "leave them be." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this nuisance.

ERRONEOUS REASONING

M. V. writes: Could lung filled with poison pus be the cause of a terrible case of dry eczema?

REPLY: Probably not. Eczema can result from sensitivity to some food, medicine, or external agent.

DIVERTICULI

G. T. writes: What makes pockets in the bowel?

REPLY: No one knows but the presence of these lesions is so prevalent after the age of 30 years as to be believed to be due to a degenerative process. In many instances the outpocketings arise at the site where the blood vessels enter the structure.

The Marines were a little annoyed last week when that Navy pilot broke the world's speed record by doing 640 miles per hour over the Muroc Field. They weren't going to be caught with their jets down, so they took the situation in hand by sending up Marine Pilot Marion Carl, who is on orders from his superior officer . . . proceeded to break the Navy's record by doing 650 per hour. What some guys will do for a weekend pass. From the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli is now just a five-minute hop.

This inter-military rivalry is bound to push that speed mark in to the thousand mile per hour class. I understand the Army isn't taking the Marine record lying down. It is now furiously mailing enlistment pamphlets to Flash Gordon.

Of course, we haven't as yet heard from the Coast Guard. No one knows this yet, but they are secretly developing a flying submarine with a mounted mixer propelled by bicarbonated rockets. It's reputed to go as fast as today's dollar bill.

Green To Continue As President Of A. F. of L., Whose Squabbling Chiefs Can't Decide On Successor; Farm Mortgage Corp.—Federal Agency—Shows Profit

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON. — Contrary to plans, this will NOT be 75-year-old William Green's last term as president of the American Federation of Labor.

He will be re-elected for another (his 34th) term at the AFL convention in San Francisco in October. Weary and ailing, Green had intended to close his active career this year. After his re-election at the 1946 convention, he stated privately it would be his last term. But two major developments have changed the situation.

One was the inability of the inner clique of AFL rulers to get together on a successor to Green. While he is president, Green is actually little more than a figurehead. Real AFL control is wielded by a small coterie consisting of John L. Lewis, William "Big Bill" Hutchison, carpenter boss; Daniel Tobin, teamsters czar; and George Meany, busy AFL secretary-treasurer.

All these moguls, plus sundry other lesser ones, want Green's job. Power-hungry Lewis is particularly hot after it. He made strenuous efforts to get it a quarter of a century after the death of Samuel Gompers. But other ambitious aspirants scuttled Lewis, who in turn blocked them from snatching the prize. That was how Green got it. He was a relatively unimportant officer in Lewis's miners union, and was accepted as a compromise choice.

At the time, the squabbling AFL chiefs figured Green would hold the presidency only for a year or so until they could get together among themselves. But that was the big hitch. They never could get together, and after the death of Gompers, they continued to re-elect Green.

After 24 years, the same situation still largely prevails. While nominally Lewis is eager to see one of the others in the top job, that is particularly true as regards Lewis, whose autocratic proclivities are well known to them.

The other factor influencing the continuance of Green is the Taft-Hartley Act. The AFL is planning an all-out election fight next year against Congressional support of this law. Within the AFL is vital. A free-for-all over the Federation's president might endanger unity. So Green will be kept on, barring some unpredictable upset by Lewis.

If he is planning any apocalyptic pale, no one is eager to see one of the others in the top job. That is particularly true as regards Lewis, whose autocratic proclivities are well known to them.

No upset is expected in inner AFL circles. But Lewis is a law unto himself, and as long as he's around anything can happen.

Note: Meany, New York Republican and a Dewey backer, hopes eventually to win Green's job as a compromise candidate.

Unprecedented Agency This is a story about a remarkable Government lending agency. Instead of losing money, it has made a great deal of it. $105,000,000 is to be exact.

The phenomenon is the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, created in 1934 by the New Deal when Henry Wallace was Secretary of Agriculture. Further, the man chiefly responsible for the success of FFMC is a professor. He is Dr. William I. Myers, dean of Cornell University's Agricultural School, and the first head of the agency.

The FFMC bill was introduced in Congress as an emergency measure to bolster the depression-racked farm economy. It was frankly admitted the Corporation probably would lose a great deal of money. But it was held the measure was necessary to halt the flood of fore-

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (CP).—One result of the B-17 crash off Hawaii which killed George Atcheson, Jr., top political adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, is expected to be an order banning such "special" flights for VIP's (very important persons) in the future.

Such high-ranking emissaries, it is believed, will be instructed to take passage on the regular Army or Navy transport when they are on duty between the Far East and the United States.

Both the ATC and NATS have enviable safety records and are determined to maintain them by following prescribed flight procedure, which calls for regular fuel stops on the long trans-ocean hops.

Veterans of ATC and NATS are at a loss to understand why the fuel stop at Johnston Island, about midway between Kwajalein and Honolulu, was passed up by the pilot of the ill-fated B-17.

They do not accept the explanation that "Johnston is too hard to find in bad weather." They point out that their navigators never have failed to find the tiny island, and as a result never have run short of fuel, which was the cause of the B-17 crash.

NEW BEACHHEAD—Soldiers and sailors of World War II suddenly have been confronted with one more beachhead to storm, one more enemy to defeat.

The beachhead is the bank, the enemy is the "American" army of forgers. C (for Cash) Day is Sept. 1 when GIs can turn in their terminal checks and bonds for money.

Secret Service Chief Magoney, whose force is charged with protection of the country's currency, warns that forgers anticipate a field day.

closure and bankruptcies then engulfing farmers.

To raise the Corporation's capital, Dr. Myers embarked on a bold gamble. He bought hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of 4 per cent interest Federal Land Bank bonds with Government-guaranteed 3 and 3½ per cent FFMC bonds. The plan was the FFMC officials are in no fear of a Congressional investigation. Congress thinks so highly of the agency that, at the last session, its budget was untouched.

In the 13 years of its operations, FFMC has loaned a total of $1,200,000,000. The severe drought year of 1936 was the peak, with $337,000,000 in outstanding loans.

The war saved the Corporation. More than 250,000 farmers paid off their mortgages in full. In the past six years, FFMC has collected 650,000,000 in repayments.

The Corporation is now starting to liquidate. This will take time as there is still $135,000,000 in outstanding loans. Corporation officials are hoping debtors farmers will pay up while agriculture is still prosperous.

Meanwhile the Corporation has a surplus of $105,000,000. And unlike the RFC which is $9,000,000,000 in the red, FFMC officials are in no fear of a Congressional investigation. Congress thinks so highly of the agency that, at the last session, its budget was untouched.

Chief operating official of FFMC is executive vice president Harris Willingham, tall, drawing Virginian, who whimsically describes his agency as "a vivid case of man biting dog."

Flowers Of The Field

Wonder haunts us—certainly those of us who are born sensitive to the sight of all natural beauty, or to the touch of fragrance to our nostrils. We keep questioning the unknowable and receive nothing in reply. Why the flowers of the field? Why the white water lily that springs into the sunshine from mud and stagnancy?

Emerson, in writing of Thoreau, said that he could almost name the day of the month, without a calendar, just from the appearance of certain flowers, sited to appear at that time.

The Secret Service head figures the criminal element will go to any length to "cut in" on the two and one-half billion dollars the leave bonds will bring. He urges banks to request discharge papers of veterans before cashing bonds.

POLITICAL CHANGES—Democratic party officials say that the resignation of National Committee Chairman Bob Hannegan depends on whether his doctor orders him to quit on account of his health.

Hannegan will know the answer when he returns to Washington from Hawaii where he is vacationing with Agriculture Secretary Clinton Anderson.

Anderson has been rumored in line to succeed Hannegan in the political post, but one Democratic bigwig asserts that Anderson may choose instead to run for the Senate in New Mexico if Senator Carl A. Hatch decides not to run in 1948.

This source believes that Anderson may prefer a job in the Senate, traditional stepping stone to bigger things such as the presidency. Anderson is known to be suffering from anemia, consistently has denied rumors that he would quit his present post because of his health.

NO GAG—Anti-filibuster legislation is just about as dead under Republican control of the Senate as it was when Democrats were in charge.

The reason is that, while southern Democrats are more vociferous about it, there are others—both Democrats and Republicans—from small-population states who regard the filibuster as something they might need some day.

Senator Patrick A. McCarran (D, Nevada) is outstaying his welcome to filibuster. He explained:

"If states of small population cannot have for their defense unlimited debate, the more populous states can at any time, for punitive reasons or otherwise, deprive the small states of their just measure of the right to their place in the United States."

Knights Of Pythias Hold 25th Annual Labor Day Celebration

By GEORGE H. HANST
OAKLAND, Md., Aug. 31—Prizes totaling $150, to be awarded to bands and fire companies at the 25th annual Knights of Pythias Labor Day celebration, were announced by the committees in charge of arrangements. Other committees reported they were completing their plans and would have everything in readiness for the affair on Monday which usually attracts several thousand persons to Oakland.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31—What a wonderful break for 20th's glamorous Betty Grable. Ernst Lubitsch, who has been looking for an actress for "Lady in Ermine" for years, has chosen Betty for the lead. She'll costar with Cornel Wilde, which is an interesting casting and certainly a box office combination.

Originally an operetta, "Lady in Ermine" has been rewritten by Sampson Raphaelson, and is now a romantic comedy with music. It's wonderful for Betty to have a sophisticated director with Ernst's ability, and it's wonderful that he is well enough again to make a picture.

Darryl Zanuck is particularly eager to get Grable into another well directed picture, since "Mother Wore Tights" shows a glamorous Grable with acting ability. Cornel plays a charming Hungarian—that's true to life casting all right.

Greer Garson tells me that it was she who suggested the sequel of "Mrs. Miniver," to Louis B. Mayer, and she would like to make some of the picture in England.

"I think we could get an important after-the-war story showing something of conditions in England, and I'm sure Walter Pidgeon would be willing to go with me," Greer said.

She was in Carmel over Labor Day, painting furniture when I talked with her. She's entertaining her aunt from Scotland, and in a few days her cousin arrives with her bridegroom. Greer was getting the cottage in order at Carmel for the honeymooners.

Chatter in Hollywood: I hope John Wayne will forgive me if I don't know what really is the matter with him and why he's off John Ford's picture, "War Party" for a week. John told Ford his ulcers were kicking up again, but he's really confined to his bed with mumps, and was so embarrassed at having this childhood disease that he wouldn't tell a soul. But like murder—mumps will out.

I am awfully surprised that George Brent plans to retire permanently from the screen and make his home in Tahiti. How many people have had that dream and then never were able to follow it through. Maybe he's smarter than the rest of those who keep on plugging. He has plenty of money, and since Tahiti has what he likes—fishing, living where he won't have to dress up, and being outdoors, well, it sounds like a good idea.

George says he wouldn't even have made "Luxury Liner" if he hadn't promised Joe Pasternak 10 years ago he would do a picture for him if the right role came along.

I wonder if he's going to take Janet Michaels with him, when he goes native on us?

Don "Red" Barry has decided buying white mink coats and jewelry is O. K., but there's something more important in life, so he has adopted two French war orphans just about the age of his son, Michael.

I know this is not a publicity stunt because he made the arrangements through Mrs. George Sherman, who along with Mrs. Phyllis Daniels and others, are members of the Twelve-Thirty Club, a charitable organization which arranges for the adoption of war orphans.

Anita Loos, who has been having such a wonderful time in New York, won't have to come back to Hollywood for the $200,000 breach of contract suit she and Joseph Than were bringing against Milton Sperling over "White Night." Their attorney, Jacques Leslie, says it is being settled out of court.

Sperling first felt he should not pay for the story when Joan Crawford refused to film it but changed his mind just as the matter was ready to come to trial. Joan backed out of the picture after deciding it was not a good vehicle for her.

I can only hope that this incident has been exaggerated, but it came to me very straight. The story goes that some youngsters from the Y.M.C.A. Camp for underprivileged boys at Catalina, ran into Charlie Chaplin's yacht with their rowboat.

They apologized to the lord and master of the yacht, but he is alleged to have turned on them with such profanity as has seldom been heard.

When they reported the incident to the director of their camp, he also made an attempt to soothe Chaplin's ruffled feelings and was said to have met with a rebuff that shocked him. Certainly, if this is true, it's bad for the whole motion picture industry and is not setting a very good example for those boys.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random—Leopold Stokowski is being paged by P. T. R. Roper to pay $25,863.78 which Roper claims the aging Stokowski owes him for work on "Fantasia."

Diana Barrymore joins her mother, Michael Strange, in Europe. There are reports that Diana's hectic marriage to tennis star John Howard is very shaky.

The large diamond ring Ciro's singer Connie Haines is wearing on her engagement finger, was put there by Richard A. Gray, chemical engineer. He and Connie plan to be married around Christmas time.

Dr. Corydon Wassell, who was around Hollywood while C. B. De Mille was making "The Story of Dr. Wassell," returns to the Pacific as a missionary.

Mrs. Milton Bren, who recently returned from Europe, is in Cedars of Lebanon hospital for an operation.

Raven McBride and Huntington Hartford are the newest combination.

Richard Widmark made quite a hit at the party given by the Jack Boltons. He looked like a guileless college boy off screen, and not the wicked menace he is in "Kiss of Death."

Irene Dunne is spending a busy day at the Ojai Country Club, in which she is financially interested. They tell me it's a lovely place.

Fortunio Bonanova challenged Orson Welles to a bull fight in Tijuana, proceeds to go to motion picture relief. Welles declined with thanks. I don't know why he declined—he ought to be right at home throwing the bull.

Greta Garbo is in France, the house guest of Lady Mendil.

Betty Garrett, Larry Parks' wife, is being given an extensive technical test for "Easter Parade" by Arthur Freed.

Dolly O'Brien, who was lunching with Clark Gable, and Tyrone Power who was having lunch with Lana Turner, later watched Clark making love to Lana in a scene for "Homecoming."

Ella Raines and Major Robin Olds are back from the south. The major was graduated and now goes to March Field, and Ella couldn't be happier since that means they won't be separated.

Dana Andrews, his wife and three children, have gone back to the home state, Texas, for a visit. The kids were out of their minds with excitement over flying in a plane.

Jeanne Crain and Paul Brinkman have canceled their vacation plans because of the very serious illness of Jeanne's mother, who underwent a major operation last week. That's all today.

Don "Red" Barry has decided buying white mink coats and jewelry is O. K., but there's something more important in life, so he has adopted two French war orphans just about the age of his son, Michael.

I know this is not a publicity stunt because he made the arrangements through Mrs. George Sherman, who along with Mrs. Phyllis Daniels and others, are members of the Twelve-Thirty Club, a charitable organization which arranges for the adoption of war orphans.

Anita Loos, who has been having such a wonderful time in New York, won't have to come back to Hollywood for the $200,000 breach of contract suit she and Joseph Than were bringing against Milton Sperling over "White Night." Their attorney, Jacques Leslie, says it is being settled out of court.

Sperling first felt he should not pay for the story when Joan Crawford refused to film it but changed his mind just as the matter was ready to come to trial. Joan backed out of the picture after deciding it was not a good vehicle for her.

I can only hope that this incident has been exaggerated, but it came to me very straight. The story goes that some youngsters from the Y.M.C.A. Camp for underprivileged boys at Catalina, ran into Charlie Chaplin's yacht with their rowboat.

They apologized to the lord and master of the yacht, but he is alleged to have turned on them with such profanity as has seldom been heard.

When they reported the incident to the director of their camp, he also made an attempt to soothe Chaplin's ruffled feelings and was said to have met with a rebuff that shocked him. Certainly, if this is true, it's bad for the whole motion picture industry and is not setting a very good example for those boys.

Native Of Poland
To Address B'nai
B'rith Lodge Here

A native of Poland and for many years a world traveler, will address the Western Maryland Lodge No. 1507, B'nai B'rith tomorrow in the B'r Chayim Temple Vestry Room, South Centre at Union Street, at 8:30 p. m.

David Zysman, 24-year-old former resident of Lodz, Poland, left there at the age of one, and with his parents traveled through Germany, Austria, Holland, Italy, France and Central and South America and finally settled in China in 1934.

Mr. Zysman is a graduate of Thomas Hamby College of Shanghai which is an affiliate of Cambridge University, England. He graduated in 1939 with the highest honors ever granted by that institution in its 60-year history.

Prior to the outbreak of war in the Pacific, he managed Radio Station XCDN, "The Voice of Democracy," at Shanghai, but the station was seized by the Japanese after Pearl Harbor. For more than three years during the Jap occupation, Mr. Zysman was assistant headmaster at the Shanghai Jewish High School, said to be the most modern school in China, and taught European history and geography.

During the war he helped spread Allied news in Jap-occupied territory.

In October of last year, Mr. Zysman and his wife came to the United States among a group of 450 repatriates from China. They traveled aboard a Navy hospital ship by way of Okinawa, Guam and Pearl Harbor.

Since his arrival in this country, Mr. Zysman, who also is founder and president of the B'nai B'rith youth organization in China, has engaged in lecturing and writing. At the present time he is engaged in completing a book on the Japanese occupation of China.

Mr. Zysman is an accomplished linguist, in addition to his fluency in English, he has an excellent command of Spanish, German, Italian, French, and Russian.

His subject here on Tuesday night will be "The Jewish Community in China." He will speak briefly at the Rotary Club luncheon tomorrow in Central YMCA at noon.

Zysman will be heard over WTBO tomorrow at 7:45 p. m.

COLLEGE BOUND—William "Chip" Harris, Crum, Wayne County, W. Va., won a $2,000 scholarship to Purdue University offered for the first time by the Norfolk and Western Railway to children of employees. Young Harris attended high school in Portsmouth, Ohio, graduating last year less than two months after his 15th birthday.

Two Men Uninjured
As Plane "Noses Over"

A Cessna type cub airplane was damaged but two passengers escaped injury when the plane "nosed over" in a field after making a forced landing near Centerville, Pa., about 4:30 p. m. Saturday, Pennsylvania State Police reported.

Sgt. C. W. Green, commander of the Bedford barracks, said the pilot gave his name as Malcolm Cartwright, Rising Sun, Ind., in reporting the accident. The passenger was listed as Walter Zembower, RFD, Bedford.

Felonious Assault
Charge Dismissed

A charge of felonious assault filed against Gerald Barbe, 300 block Aviret Avenue, was dismissed by Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell Saturday in Ridgeley, W. Va.

Barbe was accused of striking Roland Biller, Sperry Terrace, outside a Ridgeley beer tavern July 13. Chief of Police Jesse Elkins, Ridgeley, filed the charge.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31—What a wonderful break for 20th's glamour gal, Betty Grable, Ernst Lubitsch, who has been looking for an actress for "Lady in Ermine" for years, has chosen Betty for this lady. She'll costar with Cornel Wilde, which is an interesting casting and certainly a box office combination.

Originally an opera, "Lady in Ermine" has been rewritten by Sampson Raphaelson, and is now a romantic comedy with music. It's wonderful for Betty to have a sophisticated director with Ernst's ability, and it's wonderful that he is well enough again to make a picture.

Darryl Zanuck is particularly eager to get Grable into the well directed picture, since "Mother Wore Tights" shows a glamorous Grable with acting ability. Cornel plays a charming Hungarian—that's true to life casting all right.

Greer Garson tells me that it was she who suggested the sequel of "Mrs. Miniver" to Louis B. Mayer, and she would like to make some of the picture in England.

"I think we could get an important after-war story showing something of conditions in England, and I'm sure Walter Pidgeon would be willing to go with me," Greer said.

She was in Carmel over Labor Day, painting furniture when I talked with her. She's entertaining her aunt from Scotland, and in a few days her cousin arrives with her bridegroom. Greer was getting the cottage in order at Carmel for the honeymooners.

Chatter in Hollywood: I hope John Wayne will forgive me if I write that he's really the master with him and why he's off John Ford's picture, "War Party" for a week. John told Ford his ulcers were kicking up again, but he's really confined to his bed with mumps, and was so embarrassed at having this childhood disease that he wouldn't tell a soul. But like murder—mumps will out.

I am awfully surprised that George Brent plans to retire permanently from the screen and make his home in Tahiti. How many people have had that dream and then never were able to follow it through. Maybe he's smarter than the rest of those who keep on plugging. He has plenty of money, and since Tahiti has what he likes—fishing, living where he won't have to dress up, and being outdoors, well, it sounds like a good idea.

George says he wouldn't even have made "Luxury Liner" if he hadn't promised Joe Pasternak 10 years ago he would do a picture for him if the right role came along.

I wonder if he's going to take Janet Michaels with him, when he goes native on us?

Don "Red" Barry has decided buying white mink coats and jewelry is K. O., but there's something more important in life, so he has adopted two French war orphans just about the age of his son, Michael.

I know this is not a publicity stunt because he made the arrangements through Mrs. George Sherman, who along with Mrs. Phyllis Daniels and others, are members of the Twelve-Thirty Club, a charitable organization which arranges for the adoption of war orphans.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Labor Day broadcasting will include speakers, the last day of the national air races at Cleveland as well as the full quota of regular programs.

The speakers announced in advance: On NBC at 3:30 p. m. William Green, president of A. F. of L. On CBS at 5:15 Under Secretary of Labor David A. Morse.

On ABC at 8:15 Philip Murray, president of CIO.

The air races, which CBS started scheduling Saturday, will continue on that network at 2:30 and 4:30 p. m. with two half-hour descriptions.

A cast of four Hollywood folk will be needed to head the list for the Radio Theater's version of "Three Wise Fools" which is coming to CBS at 8. They will be Margaret O'Brien, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone and Edward Arnold.

The Guy Lombardo music show of MBS at 8:30, previously slated to disappear from the list, will continue for another four weeks, including tomorrow night.

Lena Horne, who has been bringing her singing voice to a variety of programs lately, has another guesting scheduled for NBC at 9. It will be Percy Faith's Contented concert, which he runs in addition to his Sunday CBS concert.

One of those frequent schedule changes has moved the NBC drama marking the second anniversary of the Japanese surrender from Tuesday to Monday night at 9:30. The title is "Miracle Over Main St."

MCKINNEY LOSES BEL
CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Ralph Kiner drove across his 100th and 101st run with a homer against the Cubs today and Hank Greenberg proved he knows hitters.
Before the season started, Greenberg bet Frank McKinney, Pirate outfielder, a suit of clothes that the Buc outfielder would drive across more than 100 runs this season.
McKinney will buy the suit, a tuxedo, at an exclusive fifth avenue store owned by Hank's father-in-law.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of extending our most sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful toward us upon the death of our beloved daughter, (Elizabeth) Jean Watson. We are most grateful to the Rev. Sidney Adridge and Rev. William B. Ord for their comforting words. We also wish to thank the Senior Choir of the Eckhart Baptist Church, those who sent floral tributes, and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

FATHER AND MOTHER,
Mr. John and Nellie B. Watson.

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during the illness and following the death of our dear mother, Martha Susan Cole. We also wish to thank the minister, Rev. Stacks, those who sent floral tributes, and those who loaned cars.

Daughters and Sons.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our darling husband and father, Charles H. Perrin, who died one year ago, Sept. 1, 1946.

The blow was hard, the shock severe. We never thought the end so near; how sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness that would call never fill. I have lost my soul companion. A life linked with my own. And day by day I miss him more. As I walk through life alone. There is a home not made by hands. Beyond it, golden door. Awaits the one who is now away—Not lost, just gone before. And to that home not made by hands, The Master has prepared. A place for me, and when He calls I'll meet him over there. But we will remember you, no matter how long.

Flowers we place upon your grave. Will wither and decay. But love for the one who sleeps beneath Will never fade away.

Sadly missed by his wife,
Sons and Daughter.

Cumberland Man Drowns In River Near Frederick

Brother Rescued By Two Fishermen

A Cumberland man was drowned and his brother narrowly escaped yesterday in a Labor Day weekend camping and fishing trip near Frederick, about 10 miles from Frederick.

State Police and Frederick County Deputy Sheriff George Crouse identified the victim as George William Stump, 40, 23 Arch Street, a Queen City Brewing Company bottling department worker, and his brother as Gilbert J. Stump, 9 Laing Avenue.

They left Cumberland Saturday afternoon for the camping and fishing trip with James W. Zollner, 229 Oak Street, and Stanford W. Zollner, 526 Laing Avenue.

Deputy Crouse said Stump was drowned in about 15 feet of water shortly after 9 a. m. and that his brother, Gilbert, who went to his rescue, was himself rescued by two Walkersville, Md., fishermen after he got into difficulty in the water.

Recovered In Afternoon

Stump's body was recovered by Deputy Crouse and Robert M. Nirkirk, Frederick, with grappling hooks about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The recovery was made about 100 feet from the spot where Stump was last seen.

Members of Stump's family said the Zollners were asleep in an automobile when the Stump brothers went fishing yesterday morning.

Crouse said George Stump had gotten his legs and feet muddy on an island in the river and that when they started boating again, he waded alongside, holding to the rowboat.

Suddenly, Stump lost his grip and his balance, apparently at the same time, fell over in the current, started to struggle and disappeared, the Deputy Sheriff said.

Gilbert Stump jumped into the river in a futile attempt to aid his brother and might have suffered the same fate had not Ellis Schildt and Claude Johnson, the Walkersville fishermen, boated to the spot as soon as they freed their anchors, the deputy added.

Schildt and Johnson pulled Gilbert Stump into their boat and later recovered the abandoned rowboat the Stumps had rented.

Attempts to recover George Stump's body were delayed from an hour to an hour and a half by inaccessibility of telephones, Deputy Crouse said.

Accidental Death Verdict

Dr. Charles H. Conley, Jr., Frederick County deputy medical examiner, issued a verdict of accidental death by drowning.

George Stump is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ola Stump, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Ann Leonard, Cumberland; a stepson, Franklin Bruns, Jr., Houston, Tex.; his mother, Mrs. Nora Riegleman, Cumberland; his brother, Gilbert, and four sisters, Mrs. William Rice, Mrs. Grayson Albrecht, and Mrs. Mary Shaffer, all of Cumberland, and Mrs. Abner B. Troyer, Louisville, Ohio.

He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The body will be brought to the Hefer Funeral Home where a funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Beware Of Social Security Cards As Identification By Check Cashers

Forgery Group May Be Headed This Way

Banks and commercial establishments in the Cumberland area were advised yesterday to demand more positive identification than Social Security account cards when checks are presented for cashing or in payment for small purchases.

William W. Wood, Jr., manager of the Cumberland field of the Social Security Administration, said he has received reports that a gang of forgers, first operating in Baltimore and later in Frederick, have been using Social Security account cards for identification purposes.

This particular outfit, Wood said, forges payroll checks in the name of a local industrial establishment and then on Saturday afternoon presents these forged checks in payment for all purchases, producing Social Security account number cards as a means of identification.

Trooper McElfish explained that the left fronts of the two vehicles collided in the center of a straight piece of highway approximately 25 feet wide. He said Davies was driving toward Mt. Savage while Holler was headed toward Cumberland.

The injured were taken to Allegany Hospital by passing motorists. Both cars were badly damaged and had to be towed from the highway, police said, adding that damage to each car was approximately $200.

Davies and Holler will be given hearings September 12 in Peoples Court, Frostburg, on the reckless driving charges.

Amvets Select Middletown Man As State Head

Unanimously Endorse Military Training

Maryland's Amvets, meeting here for their second annual Maryland Department Convention, yesterday went on record as endorsing universal military training and then elected Robert Beachley, Middletown Post No. 9, as the new state commander, succeeding Dr. James Marone, of Frederick Post No. 2.

The resolution on universal military training was brought to the floor by Beachley, representing the resolutions committee, and met unanimous approval.

Just before the delegates, all members of the American Veterans of World War II, tabled until their next state convention, a resolution that would have put the organization on record against a state bonus to veterans.

Name Athletic Director

In other business transacted yesterday afternoon before the convention adjourned to meet next year at Middletown, a new office, that of state athletic director, was added to the organization in a move to co-ordinate state Amvets athletics.

Another measure approved makes it mandatory for the state commander, state adjutant and state investigating committeeman to visit each post in the state at least once each six months.

Officers elected besides Beachley include:

John Groobey, J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Cumberland, first vice commander; G. Horton Peace, Frederick, second vice commander; Thomas Beatty, Grantsville Post No. 6, third vice commander; Robert Bowls, Middletown, adjutant; Rodney Willard, Frederick, finance officer; C. William Spangler, Cumberland, service officer and state investigator; W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, judge advocate; Norma Ryan, Cumberland, historian; Thomas Sheehey, Oakland Post No. 3, provost marshal; Nicholas Forte, Frederick, public relations officer; Rev. William E. Fox, Middletown, chaplain; William B. Orndorff, Cumberland, national executive committeeman, and Norman Gerdeman, Cumberland, state athletic director.

The new officers were installed by Dr. Marone.

It was proposed at the convention session yesterday that an effort be made to build up auxiliary units throughout the state, and Mrs. Joy Effland, Cumberland, president of the department auxiliary, and Miss Freda Skelly, Cumberland, state department committeewoman, were invited by Commander William Buzzard, of Middletown, to organize an auxiliary unit at Middletown in the fall.

Attending the department meeting of the auxiliary were Mrs. Margaret Pullen, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Mrs. Eva Mackert, of regional headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Auxiliary To Get Charter

With them in attendance, plans were discussed for the state department of the auxiliary to send delegates to the national convention at Columbus, Ohio, October 1 to 4.

The charter of the Cumberland auxiliary, the only Amvets auxiliary in the state, is to be presented within two months by a regional officer from Washington.

The convention of the Amvets will be held in Columbus October 1 to 4 and the state commander and national executive committeeman or the department adjutant will attend along with at least one delegate from each post.

As the convention ended, the Amvets gave a rising vote of thanks to Auxiliary members for their part in making the convention a success.

At the convention dinner meeting Saturday night in Queen City Hotel, Associate Judge George Henderson made the point that as Nazism was the threat in the thirties, communism is the threat now. "In each instance it is totalitarianism," he added.

Judge Henderson, a veteran of two world wars, registered his faith in the United Nations for the future, but said he recognizes its limitations for the present.

"Against Communism the United States stands alone," he asserted, "and we must make it clear we believe in many things as Nazism the nation was founded and must be ready to back up our belief. Universal military training is one of the ways this may be done."

Judge Henderson said Congress has not yet been approached properly about the veterans' program, and he told the Amvets that sacrifices veterans made will be thrown away because they are not carrying out activities to make possible the things they fought for.

Richard Mark Clark, W. Va., national vice commander, said veterans "talk but do nothing," and are always complaining.

He said a wave of public apathy has swept the country and declared that veterans have no practical program for peace yet "this group should be the most interested. We must not fail by neglecting the greatest of all problems—national preparedness."

W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, said veterans and their families represent half of the nation's population and have "a role to play." He urged veterans to stand on their own feet and succeed.

John Groobey, city, convention chairman, was toastmaster.

The convention got underway at noon Saturday with some 50 delegates from eight posts registering at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

First action after registration took place in City Hall rotunda when Dr. James Marone, Frederick, state department commander, and Norman G. Gerdeman, commander of J. Louis Wolford Post, the host organization, placed a wreath before the Allegany County honor roll.

Cumberland Man Drowns In River Near Frederick

Brother Rescued By Two Fishermen

A Cumberland man was drowned and his brother narrowly escaped yesterday in a Labor Day weekend camping and fishing trip accident in the Potomac River near Lander, about 10 miles from Frederick.

State Police and Frederick County Deputy Sheriff George Crouse identified the victim as George William Stump, 40, 23 Arch Street, a Queen City Brewing Company bottling department worker, and his brother as Gilbert J. Stump, 9 Laing Avenue.

They left Cumberland Saturday afternoon for the camping and fishing trip with James W. Zollner, 229 Oak Street, and Stanford W. Zollner, 526 Laing Avenue.

Deputy Crouse said Stump was drowned in about 15 feet of water shortly after 9 a. m. and that his brother, Gilbert, who went to his rescue, was himself rescued by two fishermen.

Recovery in Afternoon
Stump's body was recovered by Deputy Crouse and Robert M. Nirkirk, Frederick, with grappling hooks about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The recovery was made about 100 feet from the spot where Stump was last seen.

Members of Stump's family said the Zollners were asleep in an automobile when the Stump brothers were fishing yesterday morning.

Crouse said George Stump had gotten his legs and feet muddy on an island in the river and that when they started boating again, he waded alongside, holding to the rowboat.

Suddenly, Stump lost his grip and his balance, apparently at the same time, fell down in the current, started to struggle and disappeared, the Deputy Sheriff said.

Gilbert Stump jumped into the river in a futile attempt to aid his brother and might have suffered the same fate had not Ellis Schildt and Claude Johnson, the Walkersville fishermen, boated to the spot as soon as they freed their anchors, the deputy added.

Schildt and Johnson pulled Gilbert Stump into their boat and later recovered the abandoned rowboat the Stumps had rented.

Attempts to recover George Stump's body were delayed from an hour to half by inaccessibility of telephones, Deputy Crouse said.

Accidental Death Verdict
Dr. Charles H. Conley, Jr., Frederick County deputy medical examiner, issued a verdict of accidental death by drowning.

George Stump is survived by his widow, Mrs. G. Stump, a step-daughter, Mrs. Ann Leonard, Cumberland; a step-son, Franklin Bruns, Jr., Houston, Tex.; his mother, Mrs. Nora Riegleman, Cumberland; his brother, Gilbert, and four sisters, Mrs. William Rice, Mrs. Grayson Alkire and Mrs. Mary Shaffer, all of Cumberland, and Mrs. Abner B. Stroyer, Lexington, Ohio.

He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The body will be brought to the Hafer Funeral Home where a funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Beware Of Social Security Cards As Identification By Check Cashers

Forgery Group May Be Headed This Way

Banks and commercial establishments in the Cumberland area were advised yesterday to demand more positive identification than Social Security account cards when checks are presented for cashing or in payment for small purchases.

William W. Wood, Jr., manager of the Cumberland field of the Social Security Administration, said he has received reports that a gang of forgers, first operating in Baltimore and later in Frederick, have been using Social Security account cards for identification purposes.

This particular outfit, Wood said, forges payroll checks in the name of a local industrial establishment and then on Saturday afternoon presents these forged checks in payment for all purchases, producing Social Security account number cards as a means of identification.
